BEP-20 AUDIT

Disclaimer

Neptune audits contracts in the Binance Smart Chain. Neptune NEVER guarantees that an audited contract has no security vulnerabilities, but is only there to point out obvious vulnerabilities and make them understandable for the normal citizen. This means that this audit is purely an opinion and never a financial recommendation. On the contrary, Neptune recommends that you do not trade cryptocurrencies at all, as they are very volatile. The audit is only a snapshot in time during the audit process. For example, some contracts can use their functions to exclude investors from buying entirely or to deceive investors. This means: Neptune illustrates its OWN opinion on found potential sources of danger, it is not a guarantee for a safe investment and it is NOT a guarantee that all functions that are read through are read out 100% correctly. There is always the possibility that the developers/team are intentionally sabotaging their projects or making an exit scam. If a project has a KYC title with us, we have verified that the person is real and will provide information about that person in case of an official request from law enforcement. However, we will not make the information public. This is to protect against identity theft or other crimes. Neptune will not stand in the way of a law enforcement investigation and will share all information with the appropriate authorities. This is mainly to protect investors.

Contract's Potentially Dangerous Functions

Please Consider!

Contracts are technical objects, some of them have functions that can be dangerous for investors. Important: Just because a contract contains this function, it does not mean that the project will essentially use it for evil purposes. Always do your own Research and take Risk into Calculation when you invest into a Project.

Token Data

Supply

Disclaimer

Neptune distances itself in any course from the success or failure of a project and is a purely objective opinion on the general understanding of the contract and simplifies this opinion generalized for the ordinary citizen. always make your own picture of the project and invest only money that you can bear to lose. Neptune clearly distances itself from the fact that this document is a financial or investment recommendation. There will always be the possibility that security vulnerabilities are overlooked or ultimately not discovered. Furthermore, changes can always be made to the facts of the analyzed contract after the audit, so that our analysis always remains purely speculative and offers no guarantee. We do not take any responsibility for this, because this document is, as already mentioned, only a general presentation of data. It has no influence on the analyzed project, nor can it save you from a possible fraud.

Neptune generally advises against investing in cryptocurrencies or similar speculative investments, as they are highly volatile and dangerous. Always make up your own mind about the status of the project.
